CoolSign® Digital Signage Software Platform

Specifically designed for digital signage media, messages can incorporate still images, full-motion graphics and broadcast-quality video, with or without sound. Message elements can be designed to change automatically at any time.

Panasonic Digital Signage Packages are ideal for various applications:

Advertising/Promotion

Increase sales and promote featured products by targeting customers where they congregate or make purchasing decisions. In retail stores, dealerships, banks, transportation hubs and more, digital signage puts your message in front of your target audience, when and where it counts most.

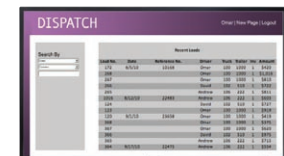

Information/Notification

Deliver up-to-the-minute information that alerts and notifies your audience in real time. Manage expectations, save time and expense by distributing correct information quickly at airport and train gates, concourses, kiosks and more.

Wayfinding/Product Information

Avoid crowding, long lines and delays by effectively directing people with wayfinding signage. From lobbies to conference spaces, campuses to hospitals, digital signage can direct, answer common questions and provide continuously updated information. Optional touch screen interactivity provides added options and can even be used to provide product information similar to a web page.

Live Video/Entertainment

From waiting rooms to bars and restaurants, automotive centers and airports, live video from broadcast TV and dedicated networks provide entertainment, news, weather, sports and advertising that engages targeted audiences.
